RBI has said it will not hesitate to make changes to the existing regulatory structure in the banking sector and has also reiterated that the lending rates would remain at current levels for this fiscal. The central bank has also said there would be no problem to move to an all digital banking platform by banks, after an earlier remark that digital operations were not yet fully developed. The country's apex bank has, however, pointed out that though it has had issues with implementation of its plan of digital banking, the system has seen growth. "I am also personally pleased that some issues are being resolved. I have always maintained that we would go to an all-digital operation. This has been an issue for some banks," RBI Governor Raghuram Rajan said on the sidelines of the 75th annual general meeting of Confederation of Indian Industry. The RBI governor's comment was in response to a question on whether the regulator would offer a refund if the RBI required banks to go all-digital by June 30. The comment came after a report in Mint newspaper on Wednesday, which said that the RBI was planning to
