The Midland Silencer Works Tactical Unibow Review Just when you thought the best and longest shooting firearms couldn't get any better, a company with a reputation for innovative design and top quality product turns around and proves you wrong. The Midland Silencer Works Tactical Unibow is the real deal. The Midland Silencer Works Tactical Unibow is a .22 LR caliber semi-auto carbine that features an aggressive, military-style design and is made from proven durable materials. The Unibow features an aluminum-bodied lower receiver that incorporates the same bore-length requirement as modern military rifle receivers and has two precision-tuned .022-inch-thick stainless steel barrels, one 7.62mm and one .22 LR. An adjustable gas-operated three-position trigger with a flat, low-profile face offers a crisp and consistent release, and a textured cocking handle gives you a positive grip that's easy to use in the field. The Tactical Unibow features a well-thought-out system for accessories, including side- and top-folding, quick-detach stock, a fully adjustable folding monopod, ambidextrous magazine release, and a single-stage fully adjustable trigger guard that can be locked in place. The Midland Silencer Works Tactical Unibow retails for $1499 and is available through the Midland Silencer Works.
