The Network Recycle Bin is a special area on a network server where all bytes from the deleted file can be found. All these bytes are saved and can be recovered and moved to the new file as soon as the new file has been stored. The network recycle bin is optimized to handle multiple simultaneous uploads, and can recover two gigabytes of data at a time. This prevents a large file from being broken into pieces and then saved. The following actions can be performed on the recycle bin:

- Create, move or link to files stored in the Recycle Bin
- Delete files stored in the Recycle Bin
- Undelete files from the Recycle Bin
- Scan other computers on the network for deleted files

Network Recycle Bin includes a history window that shows the last access time and contents of the recycle bin, as well as a hidden transfer window. The... Magic Backup Professional is a backup program for quick file backups and restores of databases, files, and registry on Windows systems.
