Riyadh has denied a report that 11 of its armoured vehicles were damaged in a suspected US cruise missile strike on the Yemeni capital. Officials at the Saudi Press Agency in Riyadh on Monday accused the Yemeni government of causing damage to 11 of its armoured vehicles in an attack on a base of the Saudi National Guard early on Sunday. They said Saudi authorities had decided to “strengthen their defences against terrorist strikes and the government's enemies,” and added that the government would boost its air defence. The border guards are the kingdom's only semi-regular force. The National Guard is part of the interior ministry and has a lesser profile to the army. Saudi Arabia has been leading the fight against the rebels in Yemen since March 2015 in the wake of a Shia Houthi rebel takeover in Sanaa. Riyadh accuses the rebels of receiving support from Iran, a charge the Iranian government denies. The rebels and allied fighters have regularly carried out cross-border attacks into the kingdom and have also targeted oil installations in the country. More than 10,000 civilians have been killed in Saudi bombing raids on Yemen since March 2015, and recent reports have suggested that UN human rights experts have concluded that up to 85% of the 14,000 civilians killed over the past three years have been killed in Saudi air strikes. After the new UN experts report was issued, Saudi Arabia has “continued [its] indiscriminate attacks in Yemen” and has been accused of war crimes by the panel of experts. Reem Al Mashwesh, a Yemen-based journalist, said the “Saudi media has proven to be a mouthpiece for the state and its rulers.”Q: C# Transmit and Receive System.IO.NetworkStream I have the following code: System.IO.NetworkStream networkStream = (System.IO.NetworkStream)client.GetStream(); int szCount = networkStream.Read(buffer, 0, buffer.Length); if (szCount > 0) { int

The Liquify tool is used to distort an image or group of pixels and make it look like an organic substance. This is useful for creating photo manipulations. There are many advanced feature tools in Photoshop. Here's an overview of some of the most important: With these tools you can use tools like the liquify tool and erase pixels or create compound paths with different paint tools. With a polygonal lasso, you can select an area with multiple shapes. With the pen tool, you can add or delete pixels or create a new shape with the help of an elliptical and square selection mask. The Fuzzy Select tool is ideal for fine art and retouching. It makes it easy to remove blemishes in an image. Layer Adjustments With Layer Adjustments you can create and edit effects on layers, including fade effects, color transitions and opacity. With the Blend Modes, you can add different effects to the layers in an image. You can also use filters and adjustment layers to alter the color and luminance values of the layers in an image. Many tools exist for working with layers. Here are some of the most important: With the Paths tool, you can create and edit new shapes with paths that can then be closed. You can also use the Lasso tool to select an area and paint a path around that area. The Adjustment Brush lets you adjust the color, luminance or contrast of an image. You can also apply brush settings to the image. You can control the brush density, size and brush type with the Brush Preset Manager. The Gradient tool lets you add, change and edit color and luminance gradients. The Pen tool lets you add or remove paths. You can also draw shapes with the help of a shape tool. The Pencil tool is used to draw shapes and lines in an image. The Paint Bucket tool fills the shape you have drawn with the color you set. The Delete tool lets you delete parts of the image. Mesh Modifiers In Photoshop, there are tools that are commonly used for creating various types of 3D objects in an image: In the Mesh tools menu you can use the Bevel and the Subsurface tools, which let you create a 3D mesh in a single layer. You can use the Edge Mesh tools for creating and editing a surface that looks like it has been drawn with a piece
