"I was such a bad runner that I was scared to run and terrified of falling," he said in the documentary. "I don't really want to talk about it." Yet for all those bad times, the obstacles he had to overcome in his career are incredible. From the first Paralympic Games, where he competed with the polio-afflicted Neville Denton, who would later be killed in a car accident. He had to swim while holding a cane, with a stone supporting his legs and a stick used to steer him. "It was swimming as I never had," he says. "We were far from home, with no drugs, no fluid, nothing, and me thinking I couldn't keep up. I thought I was drowning." As the Games went on, his guides got better at handling him and bringing him safely through. He was back in Sydney for the 2000 Games, and the year after that made his first of two comeback World Championships. He won three silver medals in back-to-back years, and just like at the Paralymp

Quick and easy to use, the best service ever: 08.02.2012 14:22:17 I need to download several files. When I enter the number for the file I need to download, it starts to download the file and then the downloading is killed. Do I need to use a download manager? Beware that this link downloads all files, the file(s) I want to download must be the 1st file in the list.Q: HTML Shorthand for Form, Input Type with Class, and CSS Is there a shorter, easier way to assign css styles to elements that do not use the :input selector? This way I don't have to bother with css pseudo classes that are just for selectors like :hover, :active, etc. For example, if I have a form like this: Submit Using only the HTML, do I have to assign the styles
